William Douglas follows family tradition of running a business

By JUDY KRAMER Rains County Leader contributor

tanks, bedding, food and toys. "I have been around animals all my life through family and through friends who own zoos," said Douglas. "I have some monkeys and a baby lemur at home as well as Sulcata Tortoises who can live 150 years and can weigh 200 pounds. I also have a bird farm with Cockatoos." A friend of mine in Killeen owns a drive-through safari and I have spent time there too."

According to www.bing.com, lemurs are wet-nosed primates that are endemic to the island of Madagascar. They have a pointed snout, large eyes, and a long tail. Sulcata tortoises (Geochelone sulcata), also known as the African spurred tortoise, are unique pet tortoises to care for. They are one of the largest tortoise species in the world and are often seen in zoos and conservatories. Cockatoos are a group of 21 parrot species with distinctive crests and curved bills. They are native to Australia, Indonesia and nearby islands.

where he sells birds. He also has experience as a manager at Petco in Greenville. He considers owning his own shop "living the dream." He plans on adding another room to the shop in a few months where his mother will do animal grooming. He is proud of his family's history of owning businesses and has a picture in his shop of his younger self with his great-great-grandfather in front of his first feed store in Arkansas.

Douglas was born in Garland and went to school in Bonham. Half of his family has lived in Fannin County and half in Rains County, so funny. He is ambitious."

Douglas is a veteran vendor at he spent a lot of time going back and Canton First Monday Trade Center forth between the two locations before moving to the local area. His hobbies include pretty much anything outdoors.

Melba Wiley, Judge Linda Wallace's Administrative Assistant, is Douglas's grandmother. She remembers how she trusted him to hold a newborn puppy when he was very young.

"I bred dogs for many years," said Wiley. "I do not sell people puppies with children under five. But he was the exception – gentle. He would walk around for hours with a chicken egg in his hand. He was

"Many legitimate companies use door to door sales to generate revenue," Mechele Agbayani Mills, President and CEO of BBB serving Central East Texas said. "However, there are bad players out there, so it's important to be on the lookout for companies who use high pressure sales tactics, arrive in unmarked vehicles, do not have company branded materials and require cash payment, as they could be unscrupulous individuals who may want nothing more than to line their pockets'

If visited by a door-to-door representative, BBB advises the following:

Research the company with BBB

Visit bbb.org to review the company's BBB Business Profile to find out more about their marketplace performance. Consider customer reviews, complaint history, and overall company history. Read and understand contracts before signing

Get transaction details, including verbal promises in writing. Include start and completion dates in the contract. Never sign any contract that has blank spaces.

Pay with a credit card

Take advantage of the consumer protections provided by using a credit card. Never pay in full (unless the job is completed), and never pay in cash.

Remember the "Three-Day Cooling-Off Rule"

The Federal Trade Commission's Three-Day Cooling-Off Rule gives consumers three days to cancel purchases of more than $25 that are made in their home or at a location that is not the

By law, the company must give consumers a refund within 10 days of receiving the cancellation notice.

Seek at least three bids

Getting several proposals from prospective contractors based on the same specifications, materials and labor needed to complete the project gives you a better idea of what reasonable price is. Homeowners should discuss bids in detail with each contractor and ask questions about variations in pricing. Keep in mind, the lowest-priced contractor may not be the best deal. Go to https://www.bbb.org/get-a-quote to get a bid from a business you can trust.

Be wary of high-pressure sales tactics

A reputable seller will give you time to think through the deal and make an appointment to return at a later date. If they don't want you to do any research on them or their product or service, you may want to spend your money elsewhere.

Be Safe

Never invite anyone you don't know into your home. If the salesperson refuses to leave and/or if you feel threatened, call the police immediately.

It's also important to note that some cities do require a permit and may have other door-to-door solicitation regulations, such as the use of "No soliciting" signs. Check your city website for information.

What does it all mean?

By Linda Brendle Pastor Jason is taking us through Ecclesiastes in a sermon series titled "Life After Eden." Ecclesiastes was written by Solomon who succeeded his father David as King of Israel. After his coronation, Solomon took all the leaders of Israel to the tabernacle and offered a huge burnt offering. God was so pleased with him that He appeared that night and said, "Ask what I shall give you." This young ruler, realizing the huge task that was in front of him, asked for wisdom to rule the kingdom. God not only granted his request but threw in riches, possessions, and honor.

Throughout his reign, Solomon became world famous as the wisest man who ever lived and also the richest. And yet he wasn't satisfied. In the book of Ecclesiastes, Solomon recorded his personal search for the meaning of life. In Chapter 1 he used his wisdom to keep from going off the deep end, but he tried personal pleasure, entertainment, personal achievement, attaining possessions, and women without finding the answer. In Chapter 2 he reflected on the benefits of wisdom over folly as well as his frustration about leaving everything he had worked for to someone else. He hit rock bottom and expressed a hatred for life, and then he saw a glimmer of truth. He realized that the material things of life are gifts from God meant to be enjoyed in the moment, but true meaning was found in something

I look forward to hearing Solomon's final conclusions in the rest of the series, but in the meantime, I spent some time thinking about Solomon's dilemma. Spoiler alert: in the end, he found an answer to his questions, but we have records of others who have continued to search for meaning and satisfaction in life.

I remember reading "The Fisherman and His Wife" when I was a kid. It's a German fairy tale first published by the Brothers Grimm in 1812. It's about a very poor fisherman and a very dissatisfied wife. One day he catches a fish that turns out to be an enchanted prince. The fish assures him that he wouldn't taste very good, so the fisherman releases him. When he tells his wife what happened, she is furious and sends him back to ask for a wish. She wants a pretty little cottage in place of the shack they live in. Reluctantly, the man goes back, and the prince grants her wish. Of course, she's not happy, so she sends her husband back to ask for more and more. When she finally asks to rule over the sun and the moon, she finds herself back in the shack where she started. She not only failed to find the satisfaction she sought, but she also lost everything she had gained.

Another search for meaning was released in 1965 in the form of "Satisfaction," a song written by Mick Jagger and Keith Richards of the Rolling Stones. Their search took them through useless information from the media, advertising promises, travel, fame and girls.

The Stones will kick off their latest tour on April 28 with their greatest hits including "Satisfaction." I guess they're still looking.

In what now seems like a past life, I spent some time as an insurance agent. I can't say that I found much satisfaction there, but I had a sales manager who continually tried to encourage his sales staff with uplifting stories and words of wisdom. One of his favorites that he repeated often was about happiness. He said not to depend on a new car, a new house, a new job, or a new relationship to be happy. He said that happiness is a decision, so just make up your mind to be happy and then be happy.

I've used a lot of different terms as I've pondered the stories of Solomon and others meaning, satisfaction, happiness. Are they all the same thing? Not really. Happiness seems to be more of an emotion that can come and go as circumstances change. Satisfaction is more of a feeling that comes with reaching or accomplishing a goal. What we're all looking for goes even deeper than that. What we all seem to be looking for is the settled feeling, the peace and joy that come when we finally find the answer to that age-old question: What does it all mean?

Romans 15:13 May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope.

Students receive 15 total medals in the UIL Academic Competition

From RHS staff reports

Rains High School Journalism Department

The University Interscholastic League (UIL) Academic events recently took place at Chisum High School on April 3, in various categories such as Literary Criticism, Headline Writing, Ready Writing, Current Events, Science, Feature Writing, and Editorial Writing. Additionally, Debate, Informative Speaking, and Persuasive Speaking were held at the Region 8 Service Center in Pittsburg, Texas, on April 9. Rains High School came out with 15 total medals from the contest with four students qualifying for Regionals and five Alternates.

Rains High School emerged from the UIL District as a notable contender, with several students securing high rankings and comments from UIL Judges. Among the highlights, Sarah Roberts received second place in Literary Criticism, securing a spot to advance to the Regionals. Halle Dunn obtained fourth place in the same category, earning an alternate position. Other achievements include James Hill and Colby Crawford securing third place in Headline Writing and Ready Writing, respectively, with both advancing to Regionals. Wyatt Cook in Number Sense and Kade Sustaire in Current Events secured fourth place, earning alternate positions.

In addition to academic categories, Rains High School students did phenomenal in speaking competitions, with notable mentions including Nataleigh Sheffield securing third place in LD Debate, thereby qualifying for the Regionals, and Cameron Davis securing sixth place in Persuasive Speaking.

Overall, Rains High School demonstrated impressive knowledge and skills as many of the students have not competed in these categories in previous years. Fortunately, many of the competitors are not seniors and will have ample time next year to grow their abilities for future UIL contests.

famous for his book Eat to Beat Disease. His classic treatise on self-healing through nutrition is a fantastic read. I highly recommend this book. Digging through Dr. Li's insights, most recently I learned some interesting things about beneficial beverages that we might all consider habitually drinking every day. Specifically, Dr. Li recommends beverages that can regenerate stem cells in our bodies.

Stem cells (adult stem cells) are special cells that have the ability to develop into various types of cells in our bodies, as needed. Stem cells can generate healthy cells to replace diseased, dysfunctional, or injured cells. This unique ability of stem cells to self-renew our various body parts make them highly valuable. As we age, the function and number of stems cells decreases impacting their potential for regeneration. Maintaining healthy stem cells may be the key to staying strong in old age. As such, anything that we can do to stimulate the production and health of stem cells is a very good thing. Dr. Li recommends drinking the following.

Catechins help you relax, promote healthy lipid production, fight inflammation, and can help prevent cancer. Catechins have also been shown to increase stem cells. Green tea is good for you. Black tea can also help increase stem cell production.

Next on the beneficial beverage list is COFFEE, my favorite. Coffee is loaded with chlorogenic acid. Chlorogenic acid is a biologically active dietary polyphenol that is anti-inflammatory, good for your metabolism, and helps activate your health defenses. The chlorogenic acid in coffee improves blood flow, fosters a healthy gut microbiome, and strengthens your immune system. And chlorogenic acid stimulates the production of stem cells, allowing the organs in your body to regenerate as needed. A recent study from the UK and published in the journal Annals of Internal Medicine, highlights the massive benefits of drinking coffee. 171,000 participants aged 50-60 were monitored for over nine years. Those who drank $2 - 3 \frac{1}{2}$ cups of coffee daily showed a 30% decreased risk of all-cause coffee every day. It's good for

Our next healthy beverage is treat – HIGH FLAVANOL needed to keep all our metabolic HOT CHOCOLATE. This is not the sugar-laden hot chocolate that you find on most grocery store shelves. This is the dark healthy chocolate with 70%-80% CACAO content. If you cacao beans that have not been roasted. When roasted, cacao becomes cocoa. Cocoa is used to make chocolate. Cacao is raw. Cocoa is roasted cacao. Chocolate is made by fermenting and processing cocoa. Hope that makes sense.

To make healthy high flavanol hot chocolate (flavanols are super healthy antioxidants), you will probably have to make your own. Here is a simple recipe. Mix and heat until bubbling 2 cups whole milk, 2 tablespoons cacao powder, and 2 tablespoons maple syrup. You can purchase cacao powder online. Look for organic powder, with no sugar or other ingredients added. Regular high flavanol hot chocolate consumption (approx. 2 cups a day) has been linked to vastly improved blood flow and increased stem cell levels in humans. This is good stuff.

Enjoy these best beverages for bulletproof health!

Book-banning law gutted by appeals court

The key provisions of a law signed by Gov. Greg Abbott requiring booksellers to rate books for sexual content were gutted after the full 17-member court 5th Circuit Court of Appeals declined to reconsider an earlier decision, the San Antonio Express-News reported. The vote was 9-8 to let the earlier decision stand. A group of independent booksellers joined with book associations to challenge the law, passed in the 2023 regular legislative session. The booksellers contended the law violated the First Amendment and would cause considerable harm to their operations. One owner said the law already has caused a chilling effect and resulted in lost orders. 'The damage to us is mitigated by the fact we don't have to review every book and rate every book that we've sold to the school library," Valerie Koehler, owner of Houston's Blue Willow Bookshop and a lead plaintiff, said of the court's decision. "But the damage has been done in terms of the libraries across the entire state have changed their policies in a way that makes it hard for new books to get in."

State Rep. Jared Patterson, R-Frisco, sponsored the bill and disagreed with the court's deci-

Tax-free holiday for emergency supplies coming up

A wide range of emergency preparation supplies will be exempt from sales tax April 27-29, the Austin American-Statesman reported. The total cost of the items must be less than $75 for most items on the list, such as batteries, first aid kits, flashlights, tarps, and fire extinguishers. Higher amounts are allowed for portable generators (less than $3,000) and emergency ladders and hurricane shutters (less than $300).

Supplies that do not qualify for tax exemption include face masks, cleaning supplies, gloves, toilet paper and tents.

$100K daily fine for state temporarily halted

A $100,000 daily fine levied against the state for failing to implement fixes to the state's foster care system ordered by a federal judge was temporarily halted by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, the Statesman

U.S. District Judge Janis Jack levied the fines last Monday after finding the state Health and Human Services Commission repeatedly failed to fully investigate abuse allegations in the foster care system.

Jack issued a 427-page ruling that listed dozens of cases where mistakes or delays in investigations resulted in children going without treatment for physical and sexual abuse.

Houston attorney Paul Yetter, who has represented the plaintiffs since the case was filed in 2011, condemned the state's appeal.

'Rather than certify safe, timely investigations of reports of child abuse and neglect, the state seems determined to avoid responsibility," Yetter wrote to the Statesman in an email Tuesday. "This appeal sends a terrible message to Texas children that state leadership just doesn't care about their safety.

The stay means the fines will not be levied until the 5th Circuit Court considers the merits of the state's appeal.

Auto insurance continues to spike in Texas

Auto insurance rates in Texas rose an average 25.53 percent in 2023, according to the Texas Department of Insurance. It's largest annual increase in at least a decade and more than double average increases across the country, according to the Express-News.

Among the factors driving the increase are increased prices for new and used vehicles; increased costs of labor and parts; and the volume of accidents in Texas. The number of serious injury crashes in 2022 was up 18.5 percent from 2019, while the number of vehicle traffic fatalities increased 23.6 percent.

Ware Wendell, executive director of the consumer advocacy group Texas Watch, recommended that customers go to the Office of Public Insurance Counsel's website to compare policies from different companies. That website is opic.texas.

THIS WEEK IN TEXAS HISTORY

Witch-hunting Texan makes curtain call

by Bartee Haile

Martin Dies, fire-breathing founder of the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC), came out of retirement on Apr. 26, 1952 to run for Texas' new at-large congressional seat. After graduating from law school in 1922. Dies joined the family law firm in Orange. During two recent terms as an East Texas congressman, his father had opposed U.S. involvement in the First World War. Following in dad's footsteps, the son won election to the House of Representatives in 1931 and at age 30 became the youngest of the 435 members.

Even in the depths of the Depression, Rep. Dies had his differences with the New Deal. For example, his cure for unemployment was the mass deportation of six million aliens instead of government-sponsored work programs. By 193 the staunch conservative emerged as the leader of the "Demagogues' Club," a caucus of 75 House Democrats increasingly critical of the policies of the Roosevelt administration.

Two years later, Dies revived his anti-alien theme with a resolution that urged a sweeping investigation of all foreigners. The xenophobic proposal coincided with the concern of New York representatives over published reports of Nazi summer camps in New Jersey and on Long Island. The result was the creation in May 1938 of the House Un-American Activities Committee, known simply as the Dies Committee.

At the start of his controversial crusade to stamp out sedition, the chairman announced the discovery of a Bolshevik plot to assassinate the president. FDR had nothing to fear, however, because the Texan

• Funerals

promised to crush the conspir-

Skeptics tried to keep Dies on a short leash by limiting the HUAC appropriation to a measly $25,000, but the clever congressman stretched his committee dollars by cutting the budget to the bone. He dispensed with the usual staff, acted as his own legal advisor and retained volunteer investi-

Dies' initial targets were the New York Nazis, United Mine Workers president John L. Lewis, the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO) and left-wing infiltration of the movie industry. The Hollywood fiasco left egg on the chairman's face after child star Shirley Temple was accused of consorting with French radi-

Dies turned his attention to the sit-down strikes that had paralyzed the auto plants in 1937. Union militants were condemned as communist troublemakers, while Michigan governor Frank Murphy was castigated as a fellow traveler for refusing to break the strike.

Murphy was not only a Democrat up for reelection but also a personal friend of the president. "I was very much disappointed," Roosevelt remarked in a prepared statement chastising Dies, "because a congressional committee charged with the responsibility of investigating un-American activities should have permitted itself to be used in a flagrantly unfair and un-American attempt to influence an election."

Dies moved on to the hearings which became the HUAC trademark – the parade of repentant reds, mostly ex-members of the Communist Party, who pleaded in public for forgiveness. The staged testimony always featured unsubstantiated finger-pointing at the sinister subversives supposedly responsible for the witnesses' fall from political grace.

ions on Dies' methods as well as his motives, he attracted a large following. When Morris Sheppard died in 1941 during his twenty-eighth year in the U.S. Senate, he eagerly entered the race to pick a replacement.

The competition was stiff, but preliminary polls gave Dies a fighting chance against Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson and Gerald Mann, football hero turned attorney-general. Dies' oratorical eloquence, which caused John Connally to rate him "one of the best stump speakers I ever heard," kept him within striking distance before fading in the stretch to finish a distant fourth.

Dies then raised his biggest ruckus ever by demanding the dismissal of 3,800 federal employees as alleged threats to national security. After a painstaking inquiry by the justice department, less than one per cent – 36 to be exact – were actually let go. But the zealot's scattergun strategy had done irreparable damage to the reputations of the rest

Dies retired rather than risk losing to a strong challenger in his bid for an eighth term. Then, after a seven-year hiatus, he won the brand-new at-large seat against token opposition.

Witch-hunting was again all the rage in Washington when Dies returned in 1952, but not for long. Two years later, the Senate cracked down on Joseph McCarthy for his unscrupulous conduct, and the anti-communist hysteria gradually subsided.

In the faint hope of succeeding Sen. Price Daniel, who gave up his seat for the governorship, Martin Dies rolled the dice one last time in 1957. A victory by perennial loser Ralph Yarborough shattered his Senate dream and ended the witch-hunter's career on a sour and disappointing note.

Jim Edd Moore

1945-2024

Jim Edd Moore, 78 Greenville, passed away on April 19, 2024. He was born on April 25, 1945 to his parents Henry Spurgeon Moore and Dimple Lorene Green in Greenville, Texas.

Married for 54 years to his devoted wife, Mary Paula Moore, Jim Edd showed an unwavering love and commitment to his family. He was always there to help and support them. This was not only

He was always willing to lend a helping hand and his door was always open.

His professional pursuits began in the 1980s with the opening of his automotive business, J&R Auto Supply in Emory, Texas. He was a "Jack of all Trades" and could build just about anything. Tim Northcutt, who has worked for Jim Edd since he was sixteen, is now the owner of the business. He will continue the legacy of hard work and integrity as Jim Edd has taught him. He also enjoyed searching for antiques and restoring them to their former beauty. He could be found in Canton selling his beautiful treasures.

Jim Edd found joy in the simple pleasures of life. He had quite a fondness for seafood, especially enjoyed with family and friends. He cherished walking daily with his Club Lake friends to aid in his exercise goals. He would do this daily, walking three miles. Jim

There is nothing better for a person than that he should eat and drink and find enjoyment in his toil. This also, I saw, is from the hand of God,

This week's sermon from Ecclesiastes was titled "Food Gifts Make Bad gods." Solomon's pursuit of satisfaction, meaning, and longevity in man's toil led him to reflect on the benefits of wisdom over folly as well as his vexation about leaving all his work and gain for another. He hit rock bottom expressing a hatred for life until he realized that the things of life are momentary gifts from God meant to be enjoyed in the moment but not to provide his soul's true longing.

Our Wednesday evening services are very good! You would think that it was a Sunday morning service. Sharon Grills sang the special before Pastor Andrew Grills' informational message from I John titled "What Every Christian Needs."

Our Sunday morning service was very good and we welcomed our visitors and members. Our congregational singing, led by Dan Turk, is very uplifting. God has blessed us with a lot of talent and humble hearts. We were blessed by two specials from Sharon Grills and Dan Turk. Bro.

Andrew's message was from II Chronicles and was titled "Elijah's P.S. (post script)". Elijah had already been gone for several years. Such a powerful message! We were very excited to welcome a lady into our membership.

What a terrific day to be in church. The rain ended, and those who had been held captive inside were ready to get out and enjoy a time of worship

Donna Jones led our children's class in a lesson about disobeying God. They learned that Jonah made a huge mistake when he failed to follow God's direction choosing to run away instead. They used paper sacks with pictures of whales, and the mouths of fishes on the outside, then placed a picture of Jonah inside. We can never out run God.

Our adult class was taught by Janice Burk, Joel Frazier, Courtney Frazier, and Kelsey Frazier. Each of them brought out our need to wear the full armor of God and to be ready to stand up for Jesus, even when we sustain attacks from others for our Worship services were full of congregational singing and specials by Pastor Mike Frazier, Benny Thompson and Kelsey Frazier. We always have such an enjoyable time singing praises to our Lord and sharing our testimonies of how God continues to work in our lives. We have these special services on the third Sunday of every other month and each time we always come away from them full of love and appreciation for all God does for us.

Immediately following our services, we enjoyed wonderful time of good food and fellowship.

With all the many ugly things we are experiencing in life, find a church and be in services next week. It will lift you up and give you a boost for the week.

Several people gathered for Family Fun Night on Saturday night. It is always a good time of food, fellowship and board games. On Sunday morning, the message from Luke was titled "The Good News About Bad News." It concerned Jesus' message to the crowds that the poor, hungry, and those who weep are actually blessed because they can find their needs met in Christ. In the evening service, Bro Chris Henderson shared a message from Hebrews titled "You Gotta Have Faith!"

Rev. David Banks continued his series The Blueprint of Grace: "Restoration & Reconciliation" (Justifying Grace) with scripture text taken from John 21. David spoke on how we all have scars and each scar has a story. Each mark and old wound is part of the blue print of our lives. Jesus ask Peter three times if he loved Him and Peter replied yes. Then Jesus said feed my sheep. Sometimes we have to be asked several times to really get the picture. We all make promises we can't keep and it takes a season of asking for forgiveness before we can move on. Lord you are the only one who can make things right and make our lives whole.

SAVVY SENIOR

Healthy Travel Tips for Older Travelers

Dear Savvy Senior,

What tips can you offer retirees with health issues who are planning some trips? We've been looking forward to travel-years, but my husband has a heart condition and some back problems that ing again after staying home

the past few

Concerned

Dear Concerned, A dream vacation can turn into a real nightmare if you get ill or injured while you're away and aren't prepared. Before setting out, here are some tips to help ensure a safe and healthy trip for you and your husband.

Get prepared: Before you go, talk with your doctor about your travel itinerary and what precautions you need to take before traveling. You should also have your doctor's contact information with you when you travel, as well as a list of the medications you're taking in case you need emergency medical care while you're away.

It's also a smart idea to locate health clinics or urgent care facilities near the areas you're visiting. Your hotel can help you with this or a simple internet search can identify nearby health care services. If you're traveling abroad, the U.S. consulate or embassy in the countries you're visiting (go to step. state.gov to enroll your trip) is a good place to get a referral. Or use the International Society of Travel Medicine's directory at ISTM.org.

If you're traveling outside the U.S., you also need to find out the health conditions of the country you're visiting and what, if any, vaccinations and/or preventative medications are recommended. See CDC.gov/ travel or call 800-232-4636 to get this information.

Check your insurance: If you have private health insurance or a Medicare Advantage plan through an HMO or PPO that covers in-network doctors only, check your plan to find out what's covered if you need medical care when traveling outside your geographic area.

Beneficiaries that have original Medicare are covered everywhere in the U.S. But if you're traveling abroad, you won't be covered outside the U.S. and its territories except in rare circumstances, although some Medicare Advantage plans and some Medigap supplemental policies do provide limited coverage. Most private health plans don't pay health care costs outside the U.S. either. Be sure to check.

Many retirees traveling abroad purchase travel insurance with medical coverage, which may cover expenses if you cancel the trip, need to be treated while traveling or need to be evacuated for medical care. Make sure the policy will also cover your preexisting medical conditions. To shop and compare policies visit TravelInsur-ance.com, InsureMyTrip.com or SquareMouth.com.

Organize your medications: Make sure you have a sufficient supply of medications to last the entire trip. If traveling by air, you need to pack your medicine in your carry-on bag, so if your checked luggage gets lost or misdirected you won't be without. It's best to keep your medications in their original containers to get through airport security without delays. It's also a good idea to bring along a note from your doctor that explains why you take these medications, especially if syringes or other medical supplies are involved. For airport security requirements visit TSA.gov - click on "Disabilities and Medical Conditions." You can also call TSA Cares at 855-787-2227 prior to traveling with questions about screening policies, procedures and what to expect at the security checkpoint.

Maximize technology: Keep a list of your medications and other important health and medical information handy on your smartphone so you can easily access and share it with emergency health care providers when you're traveling. Some good apps that can help with this are Backpack Health (BackpackHealth.com) and Capzule (Capzule.com).

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior book.

For you know that it was not with perishable things such as silver or gold that you were redeemed from the empty life handed down to you from your ancestors, but with the precious blood of Christ, a lamb without blemish or defect.

RAINS LADY CAT SOFTBALL & WILDCAT BASEBALL

Lady Cats roll to district title, Wildcats suffer first district loss

By CHUCK FITTS Rains County Leader staff

The Rains Lady Cat softball team secured the District 12-3A title as they finished district undefeated, while the Rains Wildcat baseball team suffered their first district loss.

The Lady Cats hosted the Lady Buffaloes for the final game of the regular season on Thursday, April 18. They scored seven runs in the fifth inning to beat Lone Oak, 10-0.

Senior Cambree pitched five innings, allowed four hits and struck out nine batters. Junior Presley Kilgore finished the game with two hits in three at-bats, two RBIs and a home run.

On Friday, April 19, the Wildcats jumped out to an early lead and held on for the 6-0 victory over the Chisum Mus-Šenior Shawn Robertson finished the game two-for-four, with two runs scored and a RBI.

Senior Nick Bowman pitched six and a third innings, allowed one run while striking out 12

The Wildcats allowed four runs in the third inning and were held scoreless in a loss to the Edgewood Bulldogs, 4-0, on Tuesday, April 23.

Robertson pitched five and two-third innings, allowed four runs, walked three and notched six strikeouts.

The Rains Lady Cats finish the regular season at 12-0 in District 12-3A and 25-5-1 overall. The Rains Wildcats move to 10-1 in District 12-3A and 21-5-1 for the season.

The Rains Lady Cats will open the Class 3A playoffs with a best of three series against the Bonham Lady Warriors this weekend at Commerce High School. Game one is scheduled for Thursday, April 25, at 5:00 p.m. with game two on Friday,

Three Lady Cats qualify for state meet

By CHUCK FITTS Rains County Leader staff

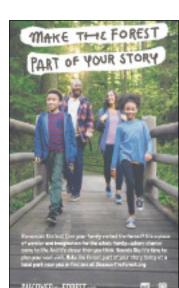

Three Lady Cat athletes qualified for the UIL State Track & Field Championship after placing at the Region 2-3A Track meet in Whitehouse on Friday, April 19.

Senior Jasey Campbell won the silver medal in high jump after clearing five feet, four inches.

In the pole vault event, sophomore Élizabeth Roan won the silver medal, while senior Amanda Rimby brought home a bronze medal for the Lady Cats.

The top two competitors from each event will compete at the UIL State Track & Field Meet on May 2-4 at Myers Stadium in Austin.
